Controversial Foreign Policy & a Hypocrite

In March of 2016 Ulvert traveled to Cuba (with former Miami Beach Mayor Philip Levine) where they met privately with officials of Castro's totalitarian regime. Their goal was to help the dictatorship open a Cuba Consulate in Miami Beach. This was an insult and outrage to the Cuban exile community in Miami Beach, Miami-Dade, Florida, and throughout the U.S. This also thrust major controversy upon Miami Beach's residents.

Ulvert spoke, urging support for a Miami Beach Cuba Consulate during a City of Miami Beach Hispanic Affairs Committee. Ulvert participated in a pro-Cuban government consulate press conference. Ulvert also spoke in favor of bringing a Cuba consulate during a Miami Beach City Commission hearing on April 13, 2014.

Yet on the crisis in Venezuela, Ulvert gives quotes and social media postings seemingly in favor of the anti-Maduro movement, calling for a free Venezuela. Ulvert recently criticized Democrat Presidential candidate Bernie Sanders for refusing to label Nicolas Maduro a dictator, and how it impacts the Florida political landscape.

So while on the payroll of his client Philip Levine (and a failed candidate), Ulvert takes active part in an offensive controversy by standing on the side of Cuba's totalitarian regime. Ulvert sided with a few misguided US business opportunists that would exchange their personal financial interests with the Cuban dictatorship at the expense of attempting to locate a Cuba Consulate in our home community. This was both an insult to Cuban Americans and against the U.S. national and Miami-Dade County's security interests.

C. Ulvert in Summary:

- ✗ A Shameful Hypocrite
- ✗ A Scandal Magnet
